

College Revue Will Be Given Wednesday

Original Compositions
Will Be Featured in Musical Comedy.

R. Flowers Writes Script

Mr. Gelger and Warren Durrett Are
Collaborators in Arranging Original Number.

Next Wednesday evening, May 21, the College will present the long awaited All-College Revue, "Take It From Me", at eight o'clock in the College Auditorium. This is an original student production with music, lyrics, and a story written by students on the campus. It is designated as the minor entertainment of the Spring Quarter.

The production is unusual in that this is the first time that an original manuscript and original music have been used in the making of a full-fledged dramatic production on the campus. The story, which is based on the rivalry of two campus leaders in situations which might easily be duplicated on any campus, was written by Robert Flowers, a sophomore in the College. Music for the Revue was composed by Wilma Adams, Charlene Barnes, Dorothy Steeby, and Warren Durrett.

Lead roles in the production will be played by Dorothy White and Elmer Hawk. Other roles in the supporting cast will be played by Ted Young, Warren Durrett, Donald Moyer, Richard Moyer, Emma Ruth Kendall, Dorothy Steeby, Dorothy Weems, Pauline Coats, Jimmy Summers, Jim Cook, Wallace Oursler, and Jesse Lundy.

Featured in the production will be eleven new compositions which students on the campus composed for the Revue. Of these, six were composed by Wilma Adams, a sophomore, two were contributed by Dorothy Steeby, one by Charlene Barnes, and two by Warren Durrett. John Geiger collaborated with Mr. Durrett on one of these numbers, a popular tune called "It Happened In My Dreams."

The compositions which Miss Adams contributed are, "Spring In Vienna," "Serenade To The Moon," the theme of the show, "I'll Think About You," "Madame Maucha," a beautiful tango, "Springtime Rhythm," and "Spring In My Heart," a serenade. (Continued on page 3)

Dean of Graduate School of Missouri University Speaks

Says Sheer Love of Study
Is Only Safe Motive for Graduate Study.

Dr. H. M. Bent, Dean of the graduate school of Missouri University, spoke to members of the Senior Class, Tuesday, May 13, about graduate work after the completion of their undergraduate work.

He spoke of four questions that students would be likely to ask if they were thinking of doing graduate work. These are: Should I undertake graduate work? What is graduate work like? Where should I go to do my study? What shall I do when I get there?

In answering the first of these questions—shall I undertake it? Dr. Bent said that this question could best be answered by a consideration of four factors? Whether the student has the necessary stamina, the necessary intelligence, the necessary funds, and the proper motive to go through with the program. There may be several motives which are quite important as secondary motives for attending graduate school. Dr. Bent said, but the only legitimate one is sheer love of study, because of intellectual curiosity. If one does not have this as his primary purpose in coming to graduate school he will probably not be successful, the visiting dean said.

The second question "What is it like?" Dr. Bent answered by contrasting undergraduate and graduate study. The three main differences he said were in the way the material is presented, the contacts which the student has with the faculty, and the contacts with other students.

In considering schools that offer opportunities for higher work one should consider the people on the faculty of his particular department, the importance and size of that department in the school, the quality and quantity of library material available, and the physical equipment available for special work.

As to the question of what one does after he begins graduate study Dr. Bent said the student was free to choose for himself whether he took a higher degree or not. He added, "Taking the degree is the conventional thing."

Two College Students Hold Alumni Offices

Herschel Bryant, a sophomore in the College, has been elected president of the High School Alumni Association of the Horace Mann Laboratory School and Curtis Gard, a sophomore in the College, vice-president. The secretary is Dean Duff of Barnard. The election was held at the annual meeting Saturday evening in the Horace Mann Auditorium.

At the meeting were 85 alumni of the high school. Nineteen from the class of 1941 attended, fourteen from 1940, thirteen from 1939, fifteen from 1938, seven from 1937, five from 1935, four from 1933, three from 1932, one each from 1934, 1930, 1918, 1917.

An alumni picnic will be held June 8 in College Park.

Dr. Dildine Speaks at Last of "Y" Meetings

The Arts Commission of the YM-YWCA, of which Emily Gillette is chairman, presented the program at the "Y" meeting of Thursday, May 15. Dr. Harry G. Dildine gave a talk on Religious Pictures. A worship service was conducted by Ena June Garrett, and poems were read by Gwendolyn Burch.

This was the last regular "Y" meeting of this quarter. The YM-YWCA banquet will be held next Thursday evening, May 22.

Camp Gravois Will Use Three College Men This Summer

Leland Hamilton Will Go as Associate Camp Director,
Two as Instructors.

Leland Hamilton, a Senior student here at the College, who has been employed as nature craft instructor at Camp Gravois for the past two summers will assist this year as associate camp director. He will be working with Mr. Victor Coy the camp director at the head of a staff of seventeen men. Mr. Hamilton's position was held last year by Mr. Alex Sawyers a graduate of the College in August 1938.

Mr. Hamilton is no stranger to this type of work. He has been employed as nature craft instructor at the camp for the past two seasons. He is very enthusiastic about the work which is designed to offer opportunities for recreational and spiritual development for boys from the ages of ten to fifteen. Most of the boys he said spend about two weeks at the camp but may stay as long as they like.

Camp opens for the youngsters on June 17 and does not close until September 1. The camp staff must be present, however, the sixth of June for a ten day training period. The camp is owned and operated by the Kansas City branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. This summer will mark its nineteenth season of operation.

Marion Moyes, a freshman student here this past year, will also be employed at Camp Gravois. This will be his first season at the camp. He will be employed in the capacity of nature craft instructor. Mr. Moyes will be president of the Y. M. C. A. organization of the College next year.

William Evans of Sheridan will have charge of hobby craft. He is an alumnus of the College having received his B. S. degree in May, 1939.

Franklin Bithos Receives News of Home in Greece

Franklin Bithos, a freshman in the College, was recently the recipient of a letter which had made the long journey from the battle territory of Europe. Mr. Bithos' father, who was at the time a soldier in the Greek army wrote the letter. The letter mentioned that Franklin's mother and sisters had been sent to Peloponnese, which at the time was safer than Athens. The letter was written in Greek, therefore it would be futile to attempt to reprint quotations for the benefit of interested readers.

Weather Observation

It has been learned through Dr. Carol Mason that the College has acquired several expensive instruments to aid in making meteorological observations. The equipment includes an anemometer for measuring wind velocity; a barograph, which measures and records atmospheric pressure; thermograph with wet and dry bulb for both humidity and temperature recording; a maximum-minimum thermometer; and a wind vane for ascertaining wind direction.

In the near future a shelter for the instruments will be built, with slat sides and double roof, and placed outside one of the class room windows. The anemometer will

Ten Members of Somerville Family Have Attended Northwest Missouri State Teachers College--Six of Them Take Degrees

Leslie G. Somerville Has Put Himself and All His Sons Through College.

When Leslie J. Somerville walks down the aisle to take his degree with the 1941 graduating class of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, one member of the College faculty will have unusual reason for pride—Mr. Leslie G. Somerville, father of Leslie J. When this young man takes his degree, it will mean one hundred per cent of the children of Mr. Somerville have been graduated from the College which Mr. Somerville calls his Alma Mater.

The father completed the work for his degree in 1925; his eldest son, H. Earl Somerville, five years later took his degree; the second son, William D. Somerville completed his work for the degree in 1937; and now comes the youngest son.

Mr. Somerville's study at the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College covered a long period of time. He entered in the summer of 1912 in what was then the Northwest Normal as a high school student, with less than one and a half years of high school credit. He completed the high school work and then worked and studied alternately until 1925, when he took his Bachelor of Science in Education degree. He has since taken his Master's degree from the University of Missouri and has begun work toward the Doctor of Education degree.

The teaching experience of Mr. Somerville has been varied. For five years he taught in the rural schools of Mercer county. He was for one year teacher of the eighth grade in the public schools of Princeton. He was principal of the Spickard Public School for one year and superintendent of the Blytheville Public School for seven years. He began work as superintendent of the Clearmont Public School in 1920, but resigned in 1921 to accept the appointment to the position of superintendent of schools of Nodaway county, when Mr. Bert Cooper resigned the position. He remained in the position until November 1, 1921. He finished out the unexpired term and was re-elected for two terms. He became a member of the College faculty in the department of Education in 1931, which position he still holds. Much of his work is at present in the extension division.

Another of Mr. Somerville's duties is with the Credit Union of the College. He has served as treasurer and managing director and has done a noteworthy piece of work in the organization.

The two sons who have already been graduated are both teaching. H. Earl Somerville, whose major was music, is now completing his eleventh year in North Intermediate Junior High School, Saginaw, Michigan. He teaches band and orchestra. He is married and has one child.

William D. Somerville, also a major in music, is completing his fourth year in South Intermediate Junior High School in Saginaw. His field of interest while at the College was voice, and he is teaching voice.

Leslie J. Somerville is completing his degree with a major in music. He expects to follow teaching as a profession.

Mr. Somerville, commenting to a reporter on his putting himself and his sons through the College here, said he did not want to take all the credit himself, for Mrs. Somerville had shared equally with him all sacrifices made. He said that her untiring efforts had done much to make possible the attaining of the ideal they had set for their family. He said also that he felt that Mr. J. Fred Hull had had a part in the success for the Somerville family, in that it was through the advice of Mr. Hull that he had accepted the appointment as superintendent of schools in Nodaway county, making it possible for him to continue his own study and preparation.

"To President Uel W. Lamkin must go great credit," says Mr.

President Closes Series of Sunday Morning Services

College Plans to Continue
Morning Hour During Summer and Next Year.

President Uel W. Lamkin will close the series of Sunday Morning Hour Services which was inaugurated on the campus this quarter. President Lamkin was the speaker at the first meeting of the series, March 16, at which time he spoke on the teaching of religion.

A violin duet will be presented on this Sunday's program. Dorothy Weems will give special readings. Lois Langland and Marjory Stone will assist with the service.

Plans are being made for the continuation of the Sunday Morning Hour at the Horace Mann Auditorium throughout the summer and the next school year. The faculty committee:

Somerville. "When he invited me to become a member of the College faculty, he made it possible for me to live in the College town and to continue my own training and to put my boys through college."

The story of the Somervilles and their relation to the College does not stop with the graduation of the father and three sons. Mr. Somerville's brother, George W. Somerville, did not take the degree, but he completed 115 hours of college work. George Somerville has served as superintendent of schools at Pickering, Clearmont, Hopkins, and Jamesport, and has been for the last 20 years a salesman for the Scott-Forsman Publishing Company. He now resides at Chillicothe.

Miss Olive Gladys Comerville, a sister, took her degree in 1929. She taught in the grades of the Spickard school and in the Elmo High School and is now completing her eighth year in the Maplewood Schools.

James H. Somerville, Jr., another brother, completed 60 hours of college credit. He taught in the rural schools of Nodaway county and is now at the government airport at Lone Rock, Wisconsin. He is resigning to put in a Gamble Store at Grant City to be opened June 1.

A nephew, Lester R. Stanley, took his degree from the College in 1937. He has taught in the rural schools of Mercer county, and in the grade schools at Matland and Oregon.

Carmen Madrigal Gives Paintings to Friends

The residents of Residence Hall are very fortunate to be the recipients of a very beautiful painting, "The Bamboo Forest," given to them by Carmen Madrigal. She also gave two paintings of still life to Miss Villars, director of Residence Hall. Carmen plans to give the remainder of her art work to various faculty members with whom she has become acquainted while a student here. Carmen is majoring in art and minoring in English. She will leave Maryville the latter part of May and will go to Washington, D. C., and then to New York before sailing for her home.

Tuesday, Dr. Dow and Carmen visited the Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City. "It is one of the most beautiful galleries that I have ever seen," she remarked during the interview with the Missourian reporter. She also wished to say that she was very grateful to the faculty and students of Maryville, and she is leaving her address of her home in Costa Rica in order that if any of her friends are ever in Costa Rica, they may come to her home and remain there during their visit as her guest in return for the hospitality shown here to her. The address is as follows: Carmen Madrigal Nieto, Box 1911, San Jose, Costa Rica, Central America, Phone 3620.

College Chorus Sings Gilbert and Sullivan

The College Chorus under the direction of Mr. H. N. Schuster and accompanied by Miss Marian J. Kerr rendered an excellent interpretation of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Trial by Jury." The audience at the regular Wednesday assembly was delighted with the witty satire on the English judicial system.

Outstanding performances were given by Marlin Johnson as the defendant, Lewis Horton as the counsel for plaintiff, and Ralph Remy as the dignified judge. Leslie J. Somerville provided a great deal of amusement with his humorous interpretation of the usher. Angelina, played by Rosa Lee Roark, was truly angelical in bridal attire—her voice matched her costume most appropriately.

Barristers in powdered wigs, jury in black cloaks, and bridesmaids in gay gowns made the stage doubly attractive.

All members of the cast contributed to the entertainment by keeping up a humorous pantomime throughout the performance.

Library Acquires Four Hundred Fifty New Books Recently

Books From Wide Range of Interest Are Included in Recent Acquisitions.

Miss Lucille Brumbaugh, assistant librarian, has announced the acquisition of approximately 450 new books for the College Library. This is the first order received this year. These books are classified under fifteen headings. They are: general reference, books and reading, psychology or child study, religion, social science, education, philology, science, useful arts, fine arts, music, recreations or sports, literature, biography, and history or geography.

The books vary from one telling of "The Pennsylvania Dutch and their Cookery" to "The Oxford book of Christian Verse."

A number of general reference books were ordered. Included in this classification were such books as: "Word Almanac for 1941," "New Cyclopaedia of Practical Quotations" by Hoyt, Preston's "American Biographies," and Adams' "Dictionary of American History."

Of special interest are books on such timely subjects as "War and the Family," "Union Now," and "How Fare American Youth."

Some of the other books on the new list are: Grabb, "We Call It Human Nature," 1940; Kunkel, "Conquer Yourself," 1936; Thorpe, "Personality and Life," 1941; Beller, "Studies in the Life of Jesus," 1936; Ellwood, "The World's Need of Christ," 1940; McCartney, "Facing Life and Getting the Best of It," 1940; Chandler, "The Clash of Political Ideals," 1940; Chase, "Idle Moments, Idle Men," 1940; Davis, "Children of Bondage," 1940; Frank, "Chart for Rough Water," 1940; Huberman, "America, Incorporated," 1940; "American Association of School Administrators," 1941; "American Council on Education," 1933; Bagley, "A Century of the Universal School," 1937; Sonnenstein, "The Soul of Grammar," 1929; Baker, "When the Stars Come Out," 1934; Frost, "Let's Look at the Stars," 1935; Herrick, "Insect Enemies of Shade Trees," 1935; Adair, "Propagation of Horticultural Plants," 1930; Day, "Instrument and Radio Flying," 1938; Hanley, "Wood Pattern Making," 1924; "American Painting Today," 1939; Cheney, "A World History of Art," 1937; Farnum, "Education Through Pictures," 1931; Bacon, "Operas Every Child Should Know," 1940; Baker, "The Wonderful Story of Music," 1931; Angell, "For What Do We Fight?"

Another point about which there is great secrecy is the matter of dedication. Is the book dedicated to a person, a building, an idea? The staff maintain that this matter is an important one which will come as a surprise, or as a climax, or as something achieved in originality. Nobody will divulge even a hint.

The Tower Book is made up of Mr. Roy Ferguson, faculty adviser; Miss Shepherd, sophomore class business adviser; Robert Turner, President of the Student Senate; Dick Dempsey, editor of the 1940 year book; Dan Emerson and Harvey Davis, present editor and business manager; and Don Deere and Wesley Page, sophomore class representatives.

The Board submits the following information regarding the year book.

Yearbook Is to Be Out Shortly Tower Staff Say

To Whom Is Tower Being Dedicated? Those Who Know Do Not Say.

An air of mystery surrounds the coming out of the College yearbook, "The Tower." Such terms as "bigger" and "better" figure in comments which those who know about it are making. Queried as to when it will be out, these same wise ones say, "It will be out soon." Nobody has been able to estimate just what soon means, but everybody is waiting expectantly for the announcement that the Tower is ready for distribution.

Another point about which there is great secrecy is the matter of dedication. Is the book dedicated to a person, a building, an idea? The staff maintain that this matter is an important one which will come as a surprise, or as a climax, or as something achieved in originality. Nobody will divulge even a hint.

Philosophy Man Lectures Widely and Has Written Numerous Books.

Dr. Dana Will Give Sermon

Town Ministers Will Participate in Baccalaureate Service—Public
Is Invited to Attend.

Dr. Jay William Hudson of the department of Philosophy of the University of Missouri has been secured to give the commencement address to the members of the senior class of 1941. He will speak on "The Things That Endure."

The commencement exercises, which are open to the public, will be held Tuesday morning, May 27, at ten o'clock in the College Auditorium.

The speaker for the baccalaureate services, which will be held in the College Auditorium on Sunday morning, May 25, at eleven o'clock, will be the Reverend Harvey Eugene Dana, president of Central Baptist Seminary, Kansas City, Kansas. His subject has not been announced.

Assisting in the baccalaureate services will be the Protestant ministers of Maryville, the Reverend Winfield S. Insey, the Reverend Sherman Moore, the Reverend Charles Hackman, and the Reverend Fred Terry. Music will be furnished by the Music department of the College. The public is invited to attend the service.

Both speakers come highly recommended. Many will remember Dr. Hudson, who made the commencement address several years ago. Dr. Hudson took his Bachelor's and his Master's degrees from the University of California. Later he went to Harvard to do research in philosophy and took his Doctor of Philosophy degree from that institution. From Harvard he was called to the University of Missouri, where he is now Lathrop professor of philosophy.

Dr. Hudson is not only a lecturer who has won national reputation, but is an author as well. Some of his books are, in the field of non-fiction, "The College and New America," "The Truths We Live By," "The Treatment of Personality by Locke, Berkeley, and Hume," "Why Democracy," and "The Old Paths Perish." He has also made a name for himself in fiction with such books as "Abbe Pierre," "Nowhere Else in the World," "The Eternal Circle," "Morning in Gascony."

The baccalaureate speaker, the Reverend Mr. Dana, is a graduate of Mississippi College, Clinton, Mississippi. He took his Doctor's degree in theology from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas. He became professor of New Testament Interpretation and New Testament Greek in the college from which he took his Doctor's degree and taught there for approximately 20 years. In 1938 he became president of Central Baptist Seminary, of Kansas City, Kansas, and is still in that position.

Dr. Dana is a popular speaker. He has preached on Sundays while holding his college positions. For several months he made the trip each week from Fort Worth, Texas, to Wichita, Kansas, to supply in the pulpit of the First Baptist church. After coming to Kansas City, he has the regular pulpit supply for the First Baptist church of Springfield, Missouri, while that church was without a pastor.

Miss Roark Will Be Presented in Recital

Elsa has been accused of killing her brother in order to secure the crown of the Kingdom of Brabant. Her accuser, Frederick of Telramund, as next of kin, claims the crown himself in a trial before the King of Brabant. Elsa is summoned to state her case. She sings this beautiful recitative and aria, telling of her prayer to heaven and of her vision of a knight in shining armor who will rescue her. The music conveys both the spirit of her pure and sincere prayer and of the nobility and strength of Lohengrin, who is a Knight of the Holy Grail and who rescues her from her disaster.

From the Dean

"The rural community consists not merely of farmers alone. It must be served by teachers, physicians, pastors, nurses, recreation leaders, and local members of a dozen other professions and semi-professions. The rural community of today can find these future leaders and workers among its young people, through the agency of its schools and other youth-guidance agencies, and see that they have opportunity to obtain the necessary advanced training, at the same time fostering their desire for a life of service among rural people."

From A Report of the Institute for Rural Youth Guidance Held in Washington, D. C., February 27-28, 1941.

Spirit of the Marble Bench

I am the Spirit of the marble bench. If you feel inclined to say, "Nonsense! Marble benches don't have spirits," then I shall reply, "Of course they do. It's just that you are not able to perceive me. You can't prove that I do not exist, so won't you give me the benefit of the doubt? Or please suspend your disbelief for a little while, for I have a story to tell and a request to make."

The Marble Bench was contributed by a graduating class who loved their college, and I, the Spirit, came into being as a source of assistance in the pleasant leisure moments which hundreds of students have added to my bench's existence.

Those moments are innumerable, but I will select a few from a busy Tuesday not so very long ago, and tell you of them.

Three boys in loud sweaters came swinging along the walk in step with a tune they were whistling. The Marble Bench was more inviting than their ultimate destination and so halted at the bench.

"Gee, this is a swell day," said one. "You said it! Wish I didn't have to go to Humanities. Don't have my lesson anyway."

"It's a shame to waste a day like this in classes. Why, it's warm enough today to go swimming."

"I wonder what they'd do about it if we skipped our classes this morning."

"Ah, they couldn't do anything. If they ask about it we can make excuses."

I laughed silently. Boys will be boys! I spent quite a while thinking up a good logical alibi to put in their minds when they stopped again. Far be it from me to spoil anyone's fun.

A young girl had just received the news that her mother had died. She stumbled to the Marble Bench, dropped down beside it, rested her head on its cool smooth surface, and sobbed desperately. It seemed that all her strength was gone. I spoke, "Courage, my child, take courage and strength. There is much left in life."

She heard and presently she became calm and rose to meet what the day had brought.

A middle-aged mathematics professor paused here to meditate upon the apparent lack of mental response by a boy named Richard. Richard always came to class, and to all appearances, listened attentively, but still didn't get the main principle straight. The professor said, "I'll just have to withhold his grade."

There and then I interceded. "No, you will not. Now just relax here in the shade of the birches and I'll tell you how to make him understand." The professor thought he was doing the thinking, but it was really I. You see, I couldn't let Richard down. He was an old friend who had confided his hopes to the birches and me many times, and I knew how he heeded that grade to graduate.

That same evening, a gay young couple stopped here as they were leaving a dance. Why did they stop? The enchantment of my abode was irresistible. The shadows of the birch leaves made a pattern of moon-leave across the pale panel of marble. The beauty held them silent for a moment, and I was pleased. I decided then and there that I would help them build their future. The girl was delightfully lovely in her delicate white and silver evening frock and the moon contributed a soft glow to the whole scene.

I told the young man that if he were to be happy, this must become a part of his life forever. Then he humbly and very gently took her hands in his and repeated the thought to her. I told her the answer, and she smiled.

How my bench was broken is a deep mystery. Had I been there to protect it, it should never have happened. But even the most diligent of spirits relax their vigils once every few years and I was out of my home at the moment when the disaster occurred.

Still, in spite of the destruction of my home, I linger near in the hope that it can be reconstructed. I do not wish to leave yet, for my friends, the spirits of the birches, are not yet prepared to depart and since we have been constant companions for so many years I would be most unhappy at being separated from them. Even now, one of the birch spirits is sharing her home in her tree with me. Now I am getting old, and after having dwelt on a bench as long as I have I am not the most agile spirit in the world and this business of climbing trees is keeping me decidedly uncomfortable.

Now my dear college associates, having befriended you so frequently in the past, I hope you will grant this request. Please see that the marble bench gets its repairs soon, and then after I have returned to my home, treat us with consideration and respect, for I would like to remain in this charming spot forever.

House-Cleaning

The girls of the Home Economics House have been through their first spring housecleaning. Of course this was different from housecleaning at home because they could usually find a brother to do the really hard work there.

One young lady there doesn't need a brother. She didn't work too hard, as far as manual labor goes, but the things she accomplished are amazing. Somewhere along in her education she learned how to make friends and influence people. Such things as furniture moving and mattress carrying may be attributed to a great degree to her as she smiled and beamed on certain gullible males and declared they were the very ones she needed.

The editor of the Northwest Missourian was seen cleaning the window shades at a very late hour. Under ordinary circumstances cleaning window shades at 1:00 p. m. would be attributed to something stronger than the wish for cleanliness of atmosphere. She had a novel way of doing it. Before she finished, however, she was using the same old elbow grease system and trying to like it. She says though that, as a window shade cleaner she'd make a good living.

Now it's over. The waxing, scrubbing and washing are all over and if there's any questions, students should drop in. Those girls can show you how to clean a house but be careful, a visitor is often the victim of the same episode as Tom Sawyer's friends in the fence white-washing incident.

Dear Diary,

Some people have no appreciation or respect for other people's property. I'm in a bad mood tonight, Diary, but anyone would be if she went to put on her new silk sheer for a heavy date just to find out her room mate had already worn it to a tea that afternoon and it was in a disgraceful state of wrinkles.

I didn't mind so much when she spilled coke on my Easter dress, nor when she ripped my blue skirt climbing over a barbed wire fence, but this is the last straw. It seems to me that when a girl gets to college she should know that some things are hers, and some aren't, and she can do what she wants with her own property; but it's only decency to take care of some one else's. Alice always has worn my clothes, and I don't mind that in itself, but just because she throws her own clothes on the floor when she steps out of them is no reason she should do mine the same way. And the American Memories she sprays herself with so lavishly, clashes putridly with my Tawed, so if I don't wash everything after she wears it, I smell like something with a white stripe down its back, which is annoying, to say the least. Well, it won't be so bad this summer and light dresses coming on. She nearly kept me broke this winter having wool things cleaned after she so casually lolled around in them, and after all the trouble she's caused me, she actually has the nerve to jump me because I borrowed her new lipstick and lost it. It really wasn't my fault and a lipstick is such a little thing. Of course, it was a Helena Rubenstein with a fancy top and everything, but after all, what's a lipstick between friends?

LIBRARY AND ASSIGNMENTS

Perhaps some students of the College wonder why they have had extra reports and additional assignments given them. It may be because they have failed to improve the time they had in the Library a few days previous.

Although generally speaking the students have done very well in keeping the Library as a place for serious study, there are still those who persist in laughing and talking for their own amusement but much to the annoyance of others. There are those, too, who use the Library for dating, which is seldom conducive to profound concentration.

Incongruous as it may seem, there is a connection between wasted library hours and added assignments. The College Librarian has what he calls a very bad habit of noting, on paper, those who seem to have nothing to do and of dropping that note into the boxes of the students' instructors with a suggestion that added work be given to make it profitable for the student to spend his time and money in the College.

The College Librarian desires that students know of this practice that they may keep it in mind and pass the information on to their colleagues of the future. It is a practice instituted only in an attempt to make the Library a more desirable place in which to study; a practice College men and women should make unnecessary now that their attention has been called to it.

REMEMBRANCE

I heard a solemn thing
Yesterday
When a door closed.
You smiled, at parting,
While I was mute
And worthless, seeing you go
And close the door behind you.

Today, I am alone
As ever, but I do not weep,
Although the door is closed
Forever.

I do not forget
The sound, which I could hear
And you not smiled.

The Stroller...

While all the staff members were busy, the Stroller decided to read copy. He got along fine until he started in on Quad Highlights and read: "Several of the young men in this group (woodwork shop boys) are making cedar chests for their own use." The Stroller has his doubts.

One of the best jokes of the week is on Jenny Wren at Rockhurst. It seems Jenny went with the Beantots for the game, and was irritating some of his Rockhurst friends with taunts about their inferiority. Everything was fine until one of them put his hand on Jenny's shoulder and said calmly, "And what prize was it that you won at the American Royal?" Taffy and the Stroller think he should be proud enough to tell, too.

The Stroller mentioned Larry Weeda's frat pin a few weeks ago, remember? It's back again. Once more it rests on Larry's manly chest—the odds are two to one it goes before commencement.

Starting out to find honors this week, the Stroller found this one from a recent English test. The students were required to write a sentence containing a "retained object." Vaughn Means, the Stroller understands, is responsible for this: "I kept the knife." Vaughn insists that the sentence is right—at least that he retained the knife.

Imagine Marshall Matthews's chagrin upon receiving a fat contract and draft papers in the same mail.

"I adore Kents," said Alice; "What a relief to meet a girl who still loves children," said Abbie. One of the staff members told that as a joke she had found somewhere.

"What's funny about that?" the Stroller heard another staff member say.

If Mrs. Chitk would hold a tomato eating contest, David White would probably win. The Stroller thinks he must have been concentrating on vitamins lately.

The Stroller was eavesdropping on Fourth Street Saturday and picked up quite an interesting conversation between Ruth Sanders and her sister. The sister asked why Ruth hadn't written to a certain important boy friend, and Ruth said, "I can't, because Dr. Dildine," and Ruth said, "Dr. Dildine? What has he got to do with it?"

"Well, you see, the only address I have is on my Humanities notebook, and I can't write until Dr. Dildine gives it back."

Special numbers were given by students from sixty country schools which have music supervisors. Numbers included in this special group were: instrumental trios, several piano numbers, rhythm and tonette bands, rhythm games, and balloon twisting exhibitions. The Murray and Clyde schools presented some especially striking baton work.

This group of eighth grade pupils rehearsed on Friday preceding the actual presentation on Saturday. The program on Saturday began at 6:30 o'clock and lasted until 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Institute Trains for Existing Positions

MENOMONIE, WIS.—(ACP)—A practical approach to training teachers is paying dividends for graduates of Stout Institute. The small college has gained a national reputation by specializing in training teachers for specific lines of work that surveys indicate will be in demand at the time of graduation.

How well the plan works is illustrated by Stout's placement record. All 123 members of last June's graduating class as well as all of this winter's midyear graduates have obtained employment. With all available graduates placed, employers even are "trailing" the senior class, according to Registrar Gertrude M. O'Brien. "In the last semester," she said, "I received calls for 20 more women than I have been able to fill."

Stout limits its curriculum to training men for industrial education and women in home economics. "It is the only school in the nation with such a singleness of purpose," asserts Dean C. A. Bowman. With the present emphasis on defense production, the result has been that Stout graduates average $140 to $150 a month in their first teaching positions and some get as high as $200, according to Bowman.

Burton E. Nelson, president, collaborates with Bowman in working out surveys used to determine types of training. To predict what specialized training will be in demand four or five years hence, Nelson and Bowman study past and present educational trends, both political and economic. They consider trends in national affairs, world conflicts, trade unionism and their effect upon journeyman development, scientific discoveries and education.

Mr. Cooper Attends Convention. Mr. Bert Cooper attended the National Teachers College Extension Association meeting at Charleston, Illinois, May 2-5. He also visited the Southern Illinois State Teachers College at Carbondale, where he saw the rural education experiment being carried on there as part of the cooperative study of teacher education.

Dates Are Seen As Solution to Problem

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—(ACP)—More dates for college students—plain dates, "blind" dates and "group" dates—are seen as a solution to marriage problems by Mrs. C. Brooks Fry, Mrs. Fry, assistant to Dr. Paul Popenoe, founder of the American Institute of Family Relations, asked all teachers to urge their students to get acquainted and make dates with each other, even during class time.

Stressing the need for greater social relationships for young men and women on co-educational college campuses, she said, "Only 55 per cent of the students in co-education colleges marry, and we are losing out in good citizenship by allowing this condition to exist."

"Popular students will have to take some responsibility in seeing that the 'wall flowers' get into the swing of campus social life, and the teachers also must cooperate."

Jealously Brings Death to Colgate University Swan

Jealousy of the man-made birds which soared above him all day long is blamed by Colgate university men for the death of Sigismund the Swan, Sigismund, a favorite among the university's civilian pilot trainees and for 10 minutes banked, swooped and turned over the athletic field with all the ease of an experienced aviator.

After a beautiful three-point landing and a few minutes rest, Sigismund took off once more. He cleared the fence and started to climb gracefully, only to crash suddenly to earth, dead before onlookers had reached him. He had not seen an electric light wire in his path. The autopsy showed a broken neck.

Greek Is Popular Subject. CLINTON, N. Y.—(ACP)—The Greeks are popular at Hamilton college. Recently the 123-year-old institution decided to inaugurate a new method of awarding an A. B. degree. The new method eliminated Greek or Latin from the course. Professor Donald B. Durham of the Greek department anticipated a sharp decline in enrolment. However, 34 students elected to include the course. A year ago only 30 enrolled.

Jugoslavians—No, no, a thousand times No! Greece—At what point you do, it's the way that you do it!

Anna Young, the new president of the organization, acted as toastmistress. Her talk was on the "Christening of the Ship." Iris Ebersole, the retiring president, took them "All Aboard." "At Dock" was presented by Miss Anthony. The pledges gave the song, "Ahoy," for their part of the entertainment. "Sailing" was the prophecy of the seniors given by Doris Lauber.

Woodpecker Frightens University Librarians

A woodpecker flew into the $500,000 Robert Browning collection of Baylor university's library. A co-ed discovered the woodpecker lighting on a $1,500 mahogany book case, realized what damage his beak might do, and called for help.

The chase went on for six hours. The woodpecker flew from expensive bookcase to expensive portrait to expensive volume—apparently delighting in the damage he might do to the world's largest shrine of Browningiana. Finally he wore himself out and collapsed behind a bookcase.

Machine Ejects 167 Cokes for One Dime

Coca-Cola's waged an all-out campaign for some of America's colleges the other night. It was in the SAE house at Emory university, a new dispensing machine (an automatic vendor that mixes cokes while you watch) paid off exactly 167 drinks for a mere dime.

E. B. Estes '41 inserted a nickel in the slot. Silence followed. Disturbed, he rammed another into the machine. A grinding noise was heard, then came the "coke." As he picked up the cup, Estes was startled by the ejection of another Coca-Cola. Then came another and still another. Estes shouted for help.

SAEs swarmed in and gulped the "cokes" while the machine ground relentlessly. An SOS was sent to Phi Delta Theta's and KA's. At the end of a half hour, the crowd, now numbering 45, was rapidly becoming Coca-Cola logged but the machine evidenced no signs of weakening.

When the 167th coke was delivered, everybody quit and the electricity supply of the unit was cut off.

"Persons who subscribed to the Tower at the beginning of the year will receive priority over those who did not subscribe. Subscriptions will not be held over more than three days, possibly two days, after delivery date of Tower."

The Tower is in publication, although the date of issue is not yet known.

Mr. McHugh said it will include conferences for students who wish to improve in their adjustment to problems of mental health, educational achievement, and vocational or avocational guidance.

He added it may include an analysis by objective tests and standard scales, of the aptitudes, interests, attitudes, methods of study and other traits of each student, with a view to providing information that may be practically useful to each individual.

Watch Survives Ocean Bath. Without a cent of cost for repairs, a watch which Dr. James L. Dyson, Colgate university professor, is wearing keeps perfect time although it lay for a week beneath the waters of the Atlantic ocean. Dr. Dyson lost the watch in Boston bay in November and a week later it was fished out by an angler who thought he had hooked a gumb. The watch was finally traced to Dr. Dyson, former Lafayette college track star, through a Penn relays inscription on the back.

Physical Instructor Says Draftees Need Build-up

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—(ACP)—Sheldon Belse, physical education instructor, believes army life would cause "pronounced hardship" for 90 per cent of the University of Minnesota men of draft age.

Examining results of the university's program to give prospective draftees body-building routines, Belse said that "poor physical condition" would make the transition from campus to camp difficult.

"They are weakest in the legs," Belse observed, "and legs are what they will have to use the most."

Tests of prospective draftees showed that they averaged 75 seconds for the 440-yard dash, about 25 seconds slower than the time of trained trackmen. One youth took 245 seconds, Belse reported.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—(ACP)—The famed glass flower exhibit at Harvard university which attracts 200,000 visitors annually, has been modernized with fluorescent lighting to bring out more exactly the fidelity to natural colors.

Officially known as the Ware collection, the models were produced from 1887 to 1939 by Leopold and Rudolph Blaschka, German artist-naturalists, the only artisans in the world combining the required skill with glass and knowledge of botany.

The personnel of the group consists of: sopranos, Rosa Lee Roark, Ellen McCreight, and Dorothy Lassel; mezzo-sopranos, Ruth Milliken, Dora Miller, Lois Langland, and Yvonne Atterbury; contraltos, Lola Argo, Margaret McLaughlin, and Charlene Barnes.

Wanted: Education

How many college graduates today are cultured? It is our contention that there are relatively few, and we should like to discuss why. Frankly, we do not feel it is the fault of the college that many students go out into the world with a mere veneer of education. There are some who, afraid to blame themselves, cry "bad man" to college and say the liberal arts curriculum does not permit any thoroughgoing study. We are not on that side of the fence. We contend, rather, that the opportunities for study offered by a liberal arts school are tremendous, and it is the students' fault that a deplorably small number takes advantage of them.

Among the educational facilities which we believe are sadly neglected are those of art, philosophy, music, the classics. How many informal groups are there for the discussion of Plato, of Renaissance art? The answer comes hurtling back: "We have no time for that sort of thing. A hundred years ago maybe, when life was slower. But not now. Everything happens too fast."

And that's just the trouble. College students of today do not realize that because worlds can crash in minutes, they must anchor themselves to something permanent. All too many young people lack that certain inner richness which comes from the pursuit of knowledge for its own sake and brings poise and the perspective necessary for keeping calm in present crises. We are living in a period of great changes; but to understand them we must also, to a certain extent, live outside them. Students read the newspapers and shudder. They read books by journalists, which attempt to perpetuate what the newspapers say, and are about as lasting. If they read Milton, for instance,—he, too, lived in a time of crisis,—or Plato, how much better off they would be, how much more stable and whole would be their view of life.—Wellesley College News.

U. S. Office of Education Bulletin, 1940, No. 5 Sells for 35 Cents.

More than 3,500 research studies in the field of education are listed by the U. S. Office of Education in its Bibliography of Research Studies in Education, 1938-39, just off the press.

Prepared by Ruth A. Gray in the Office of Education's Library Division, the publication identifies 460 doctors' and 2,840 masters' theses and 260 faculty research studies reported by 174 institutions.

Thesis topics are classified in the U. S. Office of Education bulletin under 25 main subject headings which cover many phases of school teaching and school administration. Nearly 1,300 doctors' and masters' research studies in education reported to the Office of Education for publication in this bibliography are on curriculum study subjects. Under this title are theses on such traditional curriculum offerings as reading, writing, and arithmetic as well as spelling, languages, and sciences. Such subjects as psychology, dramatics, thrift, safety, character, and religious education are also listed.

School management theses report on attendance, promotion, examinations, guidance, reports, and textbooks.

Many of the studies registered in the bibliography compiled by the U. S. Office of Education are available to students, teachers and others for consultation. They are usually available on inter-library loan from public and institutional libraries and from the U. S. Office of Education library. The Office of Education library now has a collection of 4,000 masters' and doctors' theses available to those interested in educational research.

Names of authors, contributing institutions, and descriptive notes are supplied for each of the research studies reported in the new 400-page guide.

Their Grades Nearly Same at Horace Mann

The scholastic averages of Edward Horn, valedictorian, and Cleta McClurg, salutatorian of the Horace Mann high school senior class, were unusually close, varying only .22. Edward's average was 3.61 and Cleta's 3.39, the highest possible being 4 points, or a straight E average. ## Prodigy Graduates at Sixteen Years of Age

SEATTLE, WASH.—(ACP)—The youngest of the 1941 graduating class at the University of Washington also will be the youngest ever graduated from that school. Comely, brown-eyed Catherine Mary McGrath will receive a bachelor of arts degree at the age of 16.

Catherine was too busy learning things to be bothered with going through the first, third, fifth, eighth and eleventh grades. She started in the second grade in Boston at the age of 5. In 1936, when she was 12, she graduated from a Seattle high school.

She attended Trinity college in Washington for three months, then Seattle college for two quarters. In the fall of 1937 she entered the University of Washington. While other students her age were struggling through high school algebra, 14-year-old Catherine was delving into all the calculus courses she could get at the university. Later her interests changed and she will receive her degree in French, and along with it qualifications to teach French.

Catherine realizes the difficulties she would encounter as a 16-year-old teacher. So she is thinking of going back to school to allow her contemporaries to catch up with her.

Her interests now lie in journalism and she has plans to obtain a second degree next year.
